Attorney, Abel Bean Law

Erin Allen is a skilled attorney with significant experience handling both commercial litigation and transactional matters. Prior to law school, she worked in sales and marketing at a Fortune 500 rail transportation company, which gives her a deeper understanding of commercial matters.

Erin has worked for a top-tier national law firm and as an in-house attorney for a leading health solutions company. She has defended clients in complex cases involving contract disputes, business tort claims, title insurance claims, transportation law, construction law, civil rights claims and class action litigation.

Erin is also experienced with contract negotiations and intellectual property issues. She understands the importance of providing legal advice that helps companies achieve their business objectives.

Thrilled to return to private law practice, Erin joined Abel Bean Law in 2018 because it gave her the unique opportunity to provide customized legal services alongside former colleagues.

Erin is active in her community and is currently involved in various organizations and committees that support the local elementary school and neighborhood country club. Outside of work, Erin enjoys spending time with her husband and her three beautiful children.
